

Recruitment Fraud Statement

Job applicants should be aware of false employment opportunities perpetrated through the use of the internet and social media platforms. The false opportunities frequently involve the misappropriation and use of a company's logo and photos of its executives to give the appearance of legitimacy. Tellurian believes that one of the best ways to put a stop to this sort of fraudulent activity is to make you aware of it.

No applicant for employment with Tellurian is ever required to pay any money as part of the job application or hiring process, and Tellurian's job recruitment process involves in person and/or telephonic interviews in most cases.

In addition, Tellurian's job recruiting staff sends email communications to job applicants from "@tellurianinc.com" email accounts only. Any email that states to be from Tellurian but does not have a "@tellurianinc.com" address should be assumed fraudulent. If you were a victim of fraud, you should file a report with your local law enforcement.
